The U.S. law firm of Hinshaw & Culbertson LLP is pleased to announce that Hinshaw partner Amee Mikacich was recently inducted as the president of the San Francisco chapter of the American Board of Trial Advocates (ABOTA). She was previously vice-president of the San Francisco chapter. ABOTA is a national association of experienced trial lawyers and judges and serves to foster improvement in the ethical and technical standards of practice in the field.

Membership in ABOTA is by invitation only and includes the top trial lawyers in any given region of the country. Members must have at least five years of active experience as trial lawyers, have tried at least ten civil jury trials to conclusion, and possess additional litigation experience. The San Francisco chapter includes 282 members.

Mikacich is a partner in Hinshaw's product liability practice group. She advises clients in product and premises liability, labor and employment, and commercial litigation matters in state and federal courts throughout California. She is also a member of ABOTA's California Board of Directors, and a past President of California Women Lawyers (CWL).

Hinshaw & Culbertson LLP is a U.S.-based law firm with offices nationwide. The firm's national reputation spans the insurance industry, the financial services sector, professional services, and other highly regulated industries.
