

Subpoena Response Management

Efficient, Strategic Support from Intake to Resolution

Subpoenas require businesses to navigate complex legal obligations under tight deadlines. At Hinshaw, we help clients across industry sectors navigate the full subpoena response lifecycle with a focus on efficiency, risk mitigation, and reputational protection.

We understand that process and procedure matter. Whether responding to a narrowly tailored subpoena or managing a broad request with potential exposure implications, our team works closely with clients to triage, assess, and respond strategically without disrupting day-to-day operations.

Regulatory Insight Meets Litigation Experience: Our team includes former enforcement lawyers, regulatory counsel, and trial attorneys who understand how requests are structured and how they can escalate.

Cross-Functional Integration: We connect capabilities firmwide to respond comprehensively and consistently to each request.

Scalable Support: From a single subpoena to multi-jurisdictional demands, we build teams that match the scale and complexity of the request.

Strategic Response, Seamless Execution

Our attorneys have deep experience across regulatory, enforcement, and litigation matters. We help clients:

- Develop response strategies aligned with business goals and privilege protections with an eye toward litigation and portfolio-wide risk
- Coordinate document collection, review, and production, including managing third-party vendors when necessary
- Navigate confidentiality, data privacy, and trade secret issues
- Negotiate modifications
- File petitions to quash or limit overly broad or burdensome requests
- Guide clients through follow-up interviews, meetings, and testimony when necessary

Our team also understands the internal pressures subpoena responses create. We provide executive-level briefings, internal stakeholder coordination, and board-facing updates when needed.

Trusted Defense for Every Stage

Responding to subpoenas—whether regulatory or civil—is a risk management challenge. At Hinshaw, we provide a practical, litigation-tested approach that minimizes disruption and helps you anticipate what’s coming next, prepare your teams accordingly, and build responses that protect both your legal position and your reputation.
