About Glenn

Glenn is admitted to practice in California and Arizona and is a member of the prestigious American Board of Trial Advocates. For over four decades, he has established a reputation for his work defending public and private entities, insurance carriers, and individuals in complex, catastrophic, and high-exposure litigation involving personal injury, wrongful death, bad faith, product and premises liability, and construction defects.

He also represents businesses in various commercial disputes, including contract breaches, trade secrets, and non-compete agreements. Glenn remains personally involved in all aspects of litigation through trial and has handled several successful appeals, three of which resulted in published appellate opinions.
