About Tara

Tara directs all aspects of Hinshaw's information technology operations, including security, risk and knowledge management, and e-discovery. Her work supports attorneys and contributes to the firm's ability to deliver the highest level of client service. In addition, she works with leadership to assess the broader adoption of technology, including artificial intelligence (AI), with a commitment to integrity to foster continued growth.

Tara is a certified Project Management Professional (PMP) and has completed executive coursework in AI from The Wharton School of the University of Pennsylvania and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology (MIT).

Prior to joining Hinshaw, Tara founded TSC Consulting Services to help businesses align technology with organizational strategy.
