Hinshaw partner Justin Penn will co-present an AccountsRecovery.net webinar titled “Dealing with Pro Se Litigants,” on November 6, 2025. Pro se litigants, or individuals representing themselves in court, are becoming increasingly common, complicating collection lawsuits with procedural challenges and delays that can increase costs. These consumers often struggle with legal procedures and deadlines, resulting in delays for creditors, collectors, and their counsel.

Industry experts on the panel will share strategies for handling these cases efficiently and ethically. Topics will include effective communication with unrepresented defendants, managing filings to minimize delays, and ensuring compliance while treating all parties fairly and equitably.
