About Stacy

Stacy represents insurance carriers, corporations, and individuals in litigation, including claims resolution and trial. Her practice centers on evaluating the existence and extent of insurance coverage for first- and third-party claims, conducting examinations under oath, and defending against bad faith claims. She also represents clients in general liability matters involving wrongful death, catastrophic injury, and mass tort claims, and has achieved favorable outcomes in these complex cases.

Stacy has extensive experience in both coverage and litigation. She assesses coverage issues under general liability, employment practices liability (EPL), healthcare errors and omissions (E&O), and homeowners policies and has obtained favorable rulings on demurrers and motions for summary judgment. She is a fierce negotiator who works effectively with counsel and carrier representatives to reach fair and equitable claim resolutions.
