Hinshaw & Culbertson LLP is pleased to announce that the Campaign for Greener Arbitrations has appointed Mohamed Sweify to serve a two-year term, starting in 2026, as the Co-Chair of its Outreach & Events Task Force on the Global Steering Committee.

The Campaign for Greener Arbitrations' Global Steering Committee is “a diverse group of individuals representing key stakeholders in the international arbitration community.”

About the Campaign for Greener Arbitrations

The Campaign for Greener Arbitrations is a group of arbitration practitioners dedicated to reducing the environmental impact of international arbitrations. Recognizing the need for a broader initiative to address the waste and unnecessary travel common in international arbitrations, international arbitrator Lucy Greenwood assembled representatives from key stakeholder groups to launch her “Green Pledge” in 2019.

These groups include arbitration institutions, law firms, hearing venues, third-party funders, conference organizers, legal technology providers, and corporate clients who have come together to promote awareness and share best practices for sustainable arbitration management.

About Mohamed

With proven experience handling motions, trials, and appeals in federal and state courts nationwide, Mohamed defends his clients in two principal areas: complex litigation in United States courts and international arbitration involving global and transnational disputes. He represents clients in high-value domestic and international matters across industries, including commercial, financial services, telecommunications, intellectual property, securities, partnerships, insurance, construction, and digital assets.

A bilingual attorney, Mohamed has extensive experience in international arbitration, representing corporations under major arbitration rules and advising on investor-state disputes before ICSID. Mohamed also serves as an arbitrator in complex commercial arbitrations under major arbitral rules and diverse governing laws, including New York, California, federal, English, Egyptian, Saudi, UAE, Kuwaiti, and other governing laws in the Arab Middle East. He has been recognized on the “40 Under 40” lists of the Arab American Foundation and the Middle East Policy Council and holds several leadership roles in the New York State Bar Association.
