About Jill

A trial lawyer with more than two decades of experience, Jill represents professionals facing liability claims and disciplinary actions, with a focus on health care providers. She oversees all phases of litigation, developing tailored strategies and budgets. Her health care practice includes representing hospitals, physician groups, nursing homes, and individual providers such as physicians and nurses.

Jill also defends attorneys in legal malpractice claims involving litigation, trusts and estates, and eminent domain. She handles insurance coverage disputes and represents clients in personal injury cases.

In addition to her trial work, Jill negotiates settlements, mediates cases, and argues motions in state and federal courts. She also briefs and argues appeals.
