

Greg McGuire

New York, NY

 212-655-3808

 gmcguire@hinshawlaw.com

About Greg

An experienced litigator admitted in three international jurisdictions, Greg handles complex commercial litigation, major accident defense, and product liability claims on behalf of airlines and aviation manufacturers. He also maintains a focus on Montreal Convention litigation, advising clients on the complex liability frameworks and jurisdictional nuances of international air accident law.

Prior to joining Hinshaw, Greg spent several years representing clients across the broader transportation sector, including a major municipal transit authority and various nationwide ambulance operators. This depth of experience allows him to anticipate industry-specific risks and deliver strategic counsel that protects clients' interests while supporting their operational goals.

Areas of Focus

Industries: Aviation & Aerospace

Services: Complex Commercial Litigation; Complex Tort & General Casualty; Litigation & Trial

Initiatives: International Law & Alliances

Credentials

Education

University of Dublin, Ireland, LL.M.

The Honorable Society of King's Inn, Ireland, BL

University of Galway, Ireland, BCL

Bar Admissions

New York

England and Wales

Ireland

Court Admissions

US District Court for the Eastern District of New York

US District Court for the Southern District of New York

Interests

Did you know...

Greg was born and raised in Galway, Ireland. When not spending time with his wife and son, he enjoys golfing and playing guitar.

Thought Leadership

Publications

- "IATA v. CTA: The SCC Rules on the Compatibility of Canada's Air Passenger Protection Regulations with the Montreal Convention 1999," Air and Space Law, Vol. 50(1), 97, 2025
- "The CJEU and the Montreal Convention 1999: Still Making Waves, or Treading Water?" Issues in Aviation Law & Policy, Vol. 23(2), 333, 2024
- "Fight-or-Flight, Or Both? Article 17 'Accidents' and Flight Crew Misconduct," Issues in Aviation Law & Policy, Vol. 14(1), 33, 2014