About Rowan

Rowan is a professional-responsibility defense attorney. Her litigation practice includes defense of civil actions brought against lawyers, accountants, directors and officers, insurance agents and brokers, real estate professionals and property managers, financial advisors, and notaries. Rowan also defends attorneys in disciplinary actions before the Board of Bar Overseers.

Additionally, Rowan defends nursing homes, hospitals, physicians, and nurses, and works with clients on a wide range of insurance matters. She has also counseled mental health professionals and others in the health care industry facing complex litigation and licensure disputes.

Before joining Hinshaw, Rowan handled a wide range of medical malpractice and professional liability matters. Prior to that, she assisted with workers' compensation, personal injury, and social security disability cases.
