Hinshaw partner Yvonne Ocrant recently joined Equine Business Edge founder Jamie Birch on the EquineRevShare podcast to discuss practical risk-management strategies for equine professionals.

Drawing on her more than two decades of transactional and litigation experience, Yvonne explains how carefully drafted agreements, appropriate insurance, clear facility procedures, and thorough documentation can help protect equine businesses when accidents or disputes arise.

The episode covers premises liability, horse-sale disputes, trainer responsibilities, pre-purchase examinations, emergency veterinary authorization, and the importance of tailoring liability releases to applicable state law and the risks unique to each facility.

As the first attorney ever featured on the EquineRevShare podcast, Yvonne offers practical guidance for horse owners, trainers, breeders, veterinarians, boarding facilities, and other equine businesses.
