

Cathy Mulrow-Peattie Discusses AI and Supply Chain Cybersecurity

At the Firm-Sponsored 2026 USD Cyber Law & Risk Symposium

Event

Nov 12, 2026

San Diego, California

Cathy Mulrow-Peattie will facilitate a fireside chat on the intersection of artificial intelligence and supply chain cybersecurity at the 2026 University of San Diego (USD) Cyber Law & Risk Symposium on November 12, 2026.

Cathy and her panelists, Bert Kaminski, Legal Director for Google Cloud, and Cameron Crowell, Lead of FTI Consulting's Americas Incident Response Practice, will explore how AI is reshaping supply chain security, the emerging risks organizations face, and practical strategies for navigating this rapidly evolving landscape.

Hinshaw is proud to sponsor the symposium again this year. "The New Frontier" theme examines how businesses and leaders are adapting cybersecurity risk and compliance processes in an era of unprecedented technological transformation driven by AI. The symposium brings together industry leaders, legal professionals, and cybersecurity practitioners to discuss emerging challenges and opportunities.

Cathy helped launch the symposium eight years ago and still proudly serves on the symposium's planning committee today. Hinshaw's Sabrina Janeiro will also attend this year's event and will introduce this panel. Their participation reflects the firm's continued commitment to helping clients navigate the legal, business, and cybersecurity considerations arising from emerging technologies.
