

Russ Klingaman Quoted in Law360 Article on the Next FAA Reauthorization Bill

In The News | 1 min read

Jun 1, 2017

Russ Klingaman – a Milwaukee-based partner at Hinshaw & Culbertson LLP with a practice focused on aviation and business law – was quoted in a Law360 article titled “3 Things to Watch in the Next FAA Reauthorization Bill.” The report addresses key issues that attorneys will need to keep tabs on as Congress works on the next Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) bill.

The article dealt with three main topics – labor considerations, consumer protection and drones. Klingaman discussed implications for potential new drone-related legislation. Though many experts are watching for action on privacy concerns, Klingaman is not holding his breath. “These are strange times politically,” he said, “we’re unregulating a lot of things, so adding another layer of regulation is [going to be] controversial.”

Read the full article “3 Things to Watch in the Next FAA Reauthorization Bill” on the Law360 website (subscription required)

Hinshaw & Culbertson LLP is a U.S.-based law firm with offices nationwide. The firm’s national reputation spans the insurance industry, the financial services sector, professional services, and other highly regulated industries. Hinshaw provides holistic legal solutions—from litigation and dispute resolution, and business advisory and transactional services, to regulatory compliance—for clients of all sizes. Visit www.hinshawlaw.com for more information and follow @Hinshaw on LinkedIn and X.

Related Capabilities

Aviation & Aerospace

Related Locations

Milwaukee